

Is Catherine passionate about knitting?

Welsh actress Catherine Zeta-Jones is famous for many things — her spectacular beauty, her terrific sense of style and her award-winning performances in films like Chicago — but her favorite pastime is actually not so glamorous. The beautiful wife of actor Michael Douglas is a dedicated knitter.

The handicraft, which used to be associated mainly with grandmothers, is becoming a favorite hobby among Hollywood's elite. Catherine recently passed the time on the set of her husband's upcoming film The Sentinel, with two needles and a ball of wool. "She comes, hangs out and does her knit one, purl two thing," Michael says.

Catherine reportedly has a passion for knitting ponchos as Christmas gifts!
