

Cotton tunic, Daslu, $221, at Tracey Ross, L.A.

Designers are nostalgic for the hippie-inspired arts and crafts of the '60s with colorful new crochet clothes and accessories

Cotton jacket, LaROK, $178, visit www.shopbop.com

Cotton sleeveless dress, Tory by TRB, $395, visit www.torytd.com

Cotton knit shorts, Yesim Chambrey, $200, at Elegance, Brooklyn

Crochet ball necklace, Yesim Chambrey, $140, at Elegance, Brooklyn

Rhinestone-center pins, Patch NYC, $80 each, at Calypso Vintage, NYC

Round-handle bag, Isabella Fiore, $385, at Saks Fifth Avenue

Flats, Yesim Chambrey, $240, at Elegance, Brooklyn

Cotton bikini, Anna Kosturova, $140, visit www.anna-kosturova.com

PLAYING CROCHET

Today crochet is experiencing a renaissance, appearing on everything from handbags and gloves to jaunty sundresses. And while creative types may enroll in crochet classes, most haute hippies will be satisfied to sit back, admire the handwork of our favorite designers, and invest in some of these key pieces. After all, isn't that what modern luxury is all about?

Ankle-wrap sandal, Liz Carine, collection at Barneys New York

